February 2019

Welcome to our February Meeting of four Corners which I hope you will all enjoy and maybe even learn something new!

The snow has come and hopefully gone by the time we meet and with any luck the temperature will be above freezing.

We had a very interesting talk last month by Gill Harris on her 40 years of quilting—"My patchwork journey". She showed us some marvellous examples of the quilts she has made for her family and for Combat stress. Combat Stress is the UK's leading charity for veterans' mental health. If any member would like to help Gill either by donating fabric or putting squares together please get in touch with her.

The Committee is working hard and our new Programme will be available at the AGM. We have some exciting speakers to look forward to.

Some of us went to Ardingly last weekend and I know Sue Pindar and Pam Rose came back with fabric for our next Challenge pieces and the Bookham Village Day Raffle Quilt. The theme for this year's quilt will be "All at Sea". Details on these will follow shortly.

Also a request from Marie-Louise for old Christmas cards you want to recycle.

Just a few of Gill's Quilts from her "patchwork Journey".
